APPENDIX A: MARCH SURVEY INSTRUMENT
WINTRO

WEB INTRO

We are conducting a survey on current issues of interest to Canadians, funded by the Government of Canada.

The survey takes about 15 minutes to complete. It is registered with the Marketing Research and Intelligence Association. Your participation is voluntary and completely confidential. Your answers will remain anonymous. <To thank you for your participation we will be entering your name into a draw for one of two prizes of $250.>

INSTRUCTIONS

Please consider the questions and your answers carefully.

On each screen, after selecting your answer, click on the "Continue" button at the bottom of the screen to move forward in the questionnaire.

If you leave the survey before completing it, you can return to the survey URL later, and you will be returned to the page where you left off. Your answers up to that point in the survey will be saved.

If you have any questions about how to complete the survey, please call Probit at 866.211.8881 or send an email to online@probit.ca.

Thank you in advance for your participation.

APPENDIX B: OCTOBER SURVEY INSTRUMENT
WINTRO

WEB INTRO
We are conducting a survey on current issues of interest to Canadians, funded by a group of not-for-profit industry representatives of authors and book publishers, in partnership with the Government of Canada.

The survey takes about 15 minutes to complete. It is registered with the Marketing Research and Intelligence Association. Your participation is voluntary and completely confidential. Your answers will remain anonymous.

To thank you for your participation we will be entering your name into a draw for a prize of $250.

INSTRUCTIONS
Please consider the questions and your answers carefully.

On each screen, after selecting your answer, click on the "Continue" button at the bottom of the screen to move forward in the questionnaire.

If you leave the survey before completing it, you can return to the survey URL later, and you will be returned to the page where you left off. Your answers up to that point in the survey will be saved.

If you have any questions about how to complete the survey, please call Probit at 866.211.8881 or send an email to online@probit.ca.

Thank you in advance for your participation.

Invitation to participate in a focus group on the value of books

Dear member of the Probit research panel,
As a member of the Probit research panel, we would like to invite you to participate in a discussion about the value of books in the lives of Canadians. We are holding a number of in-person discussions with people across Canada on behalf of the Book Strategy Group (BSG), a committee representing the interests of Canadian writers and publishers. The purpose of these discussions is to find out how Canadians use and access books for pleasure and learning, and their perceptions of the book industry in Canada and the role of publishers in making books available to the public.
If you choose to participate, you will attend a discussion that lasts about an hour and a half to an hour and 45 minutes. Participants will receive $70.
If this opportunity to participate in a national research study interests you, please click on the following link to receive more details: CLICK HERE
If you have any issue with the link above please copy the following link into your browser:
If you have any questions, please contact EKOS Research at 1-800-388-2873 or books@ekos.com.

INTRO

Thank you for your interest in participating in a discussion about the value of books. EKOS Research Associates has been hired by the Book Strategy Group to hold a number of discussions with people across Canada about how Canadians use and access books for pleasure and learning, and their perceptions of the book industry in Canada and the role of publishers in making books available to the public. The discussion will take about an hour and 45 minutes and we will be providing $70 to participants. These groups are being scheduled for early and mid-June 2014. Discussions will be held in English. Participation in this research is entirely voluntary and you may choose to withdraw at any time after registering. To register your interest in participating, please click CONTINUE below to answer a few short questions.

EKOS Focus Group, Cancellation

Thank you for your interest in our upcoming discussion group, to be held in Ottawa later this week. Unfortunately, due to overwhelming and unexpected interest from our panel, we are not in a position to include all interested panel members within this study; as such, we will not be able to offer you a place at the discussion. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused you, but look forward to working with during the next research opportunity. Thank you, once again, for your time and consideration

APPENDIX D: FOCUS GROUP GUIDE
FOCUS GROUPS FOR
THE BOOK SECTOR STRATEGY
GENERAL PUBLIC MODERATOR’S GUIDE
(JUNE 2, 2014)

INTRODUCTION (5 MINUTES)

» Purpose of the discussion: The groups are being conducted on behalf of the Book Strategy Group (BSG), a committee representing the interests of Canadian writers and publishers. We are conducting research with English-speaking Canadians about the cultural and economic value of written works. There are two sets of public opinion surveys being conducted, along with interviews specific to books for the education sector. These focus groups you are a part of are being conducted in 4 different cities across Canada.

» Explanation of format and “ground rules”: Discussion is being audio recorded for research purposes. Recordings are kept by EKOS, used only for reporting purposes, and are deleted following completion of the project.

» Your participation is completely voluntary. All comments are confidential. No individual will be identified in reporting. All information you provide will be used for research purposes only and will be administered in accordance with the Privacy Act and other applicable privacy laws.

» Please try to speak one at a time. There aren’t any right or wrong answers to the things we’ll be talking about — we’re just looking for your honest opinions.

» It’s okay to disagree. Please speak up even if you think you’re the only one who feels a certain way about an issue.

» Moderator’s role: raise issues for discussion, watch for time and make sure everyone has a chance to participate.

» Observers may be present in adjoining room, or listening to the group discussion by teleconference.

» Questions?

» Participant introductions: Your first name only. Tell me as we go around the table, how much time per week would you say you spend reading?
GENERAL CONSUMPTION (20 MINUTES)

1. Let’s start by talking about the types of material you read.
   ▶ How much of your reading is books (as opposed to magazines, newspapers, other materials)?
   ▶ Do you tend to read hard copies or do you read digital copies?
   ▶ Is this usually for personal interest and leisure, or for work or school?

2. Have you found that the time you spend reading is going up, down, or staying the same over time? How about your spending for books?

3. How many of you read books by Canadian authors? Do most of you tend to be aware of whether an author is Canadian or not?
   ▶ Does it matter? Why or why not?
   ▶ Should Canadians read books by Canadian authors? Why?

4. Do you tend to look at or be aware of the company publishing the book?
   ▶ Do you tend to know if a book publisher is Canadian or not? Does it matter?
   ▶ If a publisher is a Canadian subsidiary of a multi-national company, do you consider this a Canadian publisher?

VALUE (15 MINUTES)

5. Tell me about the role of reading in your life. What place does it have in your life? How valuable is it?
   ▶ Why do you chose to read the books you read (for escape, relaxation, to learn, to understand culture, etc)

6. Does reading books have a role in Canadian society in general? What role is this?
   ▶ Do you think it has an impact on the Canadian economy? On the quality of the Canadian workforce? Innovation of Canadian workforce?

7. What messages would you give to the broader public about the positive impact and value of reading books for individuals and for society?
MARKETING (15 MINUTES)

8. How do you decide that a book is one you want to read? What makes it compelling (author, topic, book cover, quality of writing, book reviews, recommendations, etc). What has the greatest influence on your opinion/decision to read or not read a book and why?

9. Do you think there is a benefit to buying Canadian authored books? What reasons would you give to people to encourage them to buy books written by Canadians? Is there any down sides?

10. What makes you decide that you want to buy a book versus borrowing it (i.e. from the library or from a friend)?

11. For those who read in both print and digital formats (including audio?). What makes you decide that you prefer one book in hard copy and another in digital format (availability, cost, convenience, whether you will keep and re-read it, etc)?

LIBRARIES (10 MINUTES)

12. Do you use your local library? What for? Why not?

13. Is this for print or digital materials? Do you go in-person or online to borrow?

14. How many of you have bought a print or digital copy of a book because of your connection with the library?

ROLE OF PUBLISHERS (15 MINUTES)

15. Have any of you bought a book that was published directly by the author, or self-published? Generally, what do you think of a book that was self-published, versus one produced by a publishing company?
   > Are there any differences in quality of writing?
   > Quality of the packaging?
   > Credibility or accuracy of the writing?

16. From what you know, what do you feel is the role of a book publishing company?
   > Sign up authors, produce books, advertise, distribute, etc.
   > When buying a book, how often do you think of or notice the publisher?
17. When purchasing a book, who do you think benefits from the purchase? Who gets the money? (the store, the author, the publisher?)
   > How is this split/distributed?
   > Is this appropriate/Does this make sense, in your opinion? Why?

PAID VERSUS FREE CONTENT (35 MINUTES)

18. There are a variety of ways that people can access books online without paying for them. Sometimes people access books without authorization/illegally. What are the implications of accessing books for free when the intent was to make them available for a fee?
   > Does it have an impact on anyone? What about for the authors? The publishers? Why? Should that matter to us? Why should we care?

19. Does sharing books have a role in our culture? When have we all traditionally shared books (i.e. borrowed from a friend)?

20. Do you think that this also applies to obtaining books online for free, when the intent was to make them available for a fee?
   > Is there a difference from the sharing that happens between individuals (e.g., friends/family) and the sharing that happens on a more mass scale on a website that is posting unauthorized content for others to download?
   > How is it different or the same and why? If so, what?

21. In some industries, like the music industry there has been a lot of change in how artists get paid for their work in an environment where music can be easily obtained for free (from individuals/organizations posting unauthorized copies online for anyone to download)?
   > Do you think that the same issue exists for the book industry (people making books available online for free)? Why is it the same or different?
   > Do you think that posting books for others to use or downloading books that were intended for a fee this is a legitimate thing to do?
   > Does anyone get hurt by this practice? Who and what is the impact (for those hurt, for society)?

22. Should people consider copyright laws and authors/publishers receiving payment for their work when they are making decisions about accessing books that were not authorized for free use?
   > Do you think that if authors and book publishers talked /made these arguments that people would care?
Would it make a difference? Should they care? Why?

23. If you wanted them to think about these issues before making decisions to access books for free, what would be the most compelling or convincing argument(s) that you would make to a group of people?

Closing

24. Does anyone have any other comments before we conclude the session?

Thank everyone for coming out to engage in a lively discussion of these issues

EDUCATION SECTOR FOCUS GROUP GUIDE
FOCUS GROUPS FOR
THE BOOK SECTOR STRATEGY
PSE STUDENT MODERATOR’S GUIDE
(JUNE 4, 2013)

INTRODUCTION (5 MINUTES)

Purpose of the discussion: The groups are being conducted on behalf of the Book Strategy Group (BSG), a committee representing the interests of Canadian writers and publishers. It’s okay to disagree. Please speak up even if you think you’re the only one who feels a certain way about an issue.

Moderator’s role: raise issues for discussion, watch for time and make sure everyone has a chance to participate.

Observers may be present in adjoining room, or listening to the group discussion by teleconference.

Questions?

Participant introductions: Your first name only. Tell me as we go around the table, how much time per week would you say you spend reading?
Pricing (20 Minutes)

1. Has your spending for books for school gone up or down? Why is that?
   ◦ Do you typically buy new or used?
   ◦ Are there areas/subjects where it is easier to buy used?
   ◦ Are ebooks less expensive? Are you able to sell them afterwards as easily?
   ◦ Do ebooks come with updates and does that make them easier to sell?

2. When developing a class reading list what factors do you think should be included deliberations? (Cost, quality, Canadian content)

3. Should considerations be given to how students can access the books (e.g., buy vs borrow)? When assigning course readings, should the cost to students of purchasing the book be taken into consideration?

4. If the price of books, particularly text books are going up, what do you think is driving this price increase? Who or what is responsible for the higher pricing?

5. Do you think that the prices of academic books are generally fair?
   ▶ What do you think goes into the creation of a book? Who pays to have the book created?
   ▶ Where does the money go from the purchase price you pay? Is this appropriate/Does this make sense, in your opinion? Why?
   ▶ Do you think that the initial money used to create/fund the academic publication is enough to cover the full price of the final product?
   ▶ What if you were told that it didn’t cover the full price, would it make sense to recover the rest of the money in the purchase price you pay? Would you feel better about the price of the book if the publishing company told you that the initial coverage of content only covered a certain portion and your purchase price is set to cover the rest?

Borrowing (10 Minutes)

6. Is sharing course assigned text books a part of the university/college culture? When do you share books?

7. Do you personally tend to use the library to access the books you read for school? Why not?

8. Do you tend to borrow print or digital materials? Do you go in-person or borrow online?

9. What makes you decide that you want to buy a book for school versus borrowing it (i.e. from the library or from a friend)?
10. What makes you decide that you prefer one book in hard copy and another in digital format (availability, cost, whether you will keep and re-read it, etc)?

11. Are you assigned much reading that is specifically Canadian? What is the value of this? Does it provide better value to your education to have these books in a Canadian context? Does it depend on the subject (i.e. math and science vs. English, arts, social sciences)?
   - What is the impact on students, and the future Canadian workforce to be taught from a Canadian context?

Paid Versus Free Content (60 minutes)

12. How much of a book do you feel is fair to copy?
   - What does this depend on? Does it make a difference/Does it matter? Who will it impact negatively/positively?

13. What about e-books or material available online? Is it fair to make copies of these available? Which ones are fair to distribute and which ones are off-limits? Does printing as handouts vs. providing a copy of a link make a difference?

14. In some industries, like the music industry there has been considerable change in how artists get paid for their work in an environment where music can be easily obtained for free (from individuals/organizations posting unauthorized copies online for anyone to download).
   - Do you think that the same issue exists for the book industry (people making books available online for free)? Why is it the same or different?
   - Do you think that this is a legitimate thing to do?
   - Does anyone get hurt by this practice? Who and what is the impact (for those hurt, for society)?

15. Do you think that the book publishing industry, like the music industry, will need to develop a new model or approach to selling books? What do you see that new approach looking like? What approach should it take?
   - How about unbundling of electronic textbooks, selling chapters or sections of text books individually, the way that itunes sells individual songs? Does this seem like a practical approach? (This already happens with print materials in course packs. Should it also happen with e-books?)
   - Will anyone get hurt by this approach? Who and why?
   - Who would gain from this?
   - Are there other ideas?

16. From what you know, what do you feel is the role of a book publishing company?
   - Sign up authors, produce books, advertise, distribute, etc.
What do publishers add to the final product of a book (quality, credibility and accuracy/trustworthiness of the information)

17. What do you know about “Fair Dealing” under Canadian copyright law? What does it mean?
   > Should schools produce their own guideline/policy to ensure they are correctly interpreting the law?

18. Should people consider copyright laws and authors/publishers receiving payment for their work when they are making decisions about accessing books that were not authorized for free use?
   > Do you think that if authors and book publishers talked /made these arguments that people would care?
   > If argument comes up again about government/academic institutions paying initially for development, or that the universities pay for the licenses to access this material – ask if they believe that the full cost is covered? Ask if they were told that it weren’t is it still reasonable to access for free? What about if authors didn’t want to bother, if they weren’t paid fully? How about publishers?

19. What would be the most compelling or convincing argument(s) that you would make to a group of people if you wanted them to think about authors and publishers before making decisions to copy or access books for free (without the authorization of the author/publisher)? Why would you argue for this (e.g., what is the rationale and who would benefit)?

GENERAL CONSUMPTION (15 MINUTES)

20. Do you spend most of the reading time for books for personal interest and leisure, or for work or school?

21. Have you found that the time you spend reading for school is going up, down, or staying the same over time?
   > Are you assigned more books or fewer these days?
   > Do you find you are reading more e-books? What is your preference?

22. How many of you read books by Canadian authors? Do most of you tend to be aware of whether an author is Canadian or not? Does it matter? Why or why not?

23. Do you tend to look at or be aware of the company publishing the book? How about when it is for school specifically?
   > Do you tend to know if a book publisher is Canadian or not? Does it matter?
CLOSING

24. Does anyone have any other comments before we conclude the session?

Thank everyone for coming out to engage in a lively discussion of these issues.
APPENDIX F:
EDUCATION SECTOR INTERVIEW GUIDES
The Book Strategy Group (BSG) is an ad hoc committee representing the interests of Canadian writers and publishers. The BSG has commissioned EKOS Research Associates Inc. to conduct public opinion research on current attitudes of English speaking Canadians about the cultural and economic value of written works. The research will explore matters of pricing, copyright law, file-sharing, ownership and lending models, as well as views on Canadian content, and assessments of knowledge and valuation of self-published books and traditionally published books.

As a component of this study, interviews are being conducted with individuals in the educational sector, including: library professionals; primary, secondary and post-secondary faculty; representatives from provincial ministries of education; and copyright specialists.

You were identified as a key informant for the purposes of this study only to speak specifically about the book use in the Canadian educational sector. All of your comments will be kept confidential. No names will be included or linked with responses in the final report. This interview will take approximately 30-45 minutes.

Please feel free to tell the interviewer if you are unable to answer any specific questions or if any questions do not apply to you.

General consumption

1. Let’s start by talking about the importance of books in the educational sector.
   - How much of the academic work that students do relies on reading books?
   - Are there any choices students should have in the books they read for educational purposes?
   - Is there any advantage to having required vs. recommended reading?

2. How are books for educational requirements chosen? Tell me a little bit about the decision process to choose book requirements. How are new books discovered?
   - Who makes the decisions on what books are required? Is this appropriate?

3. Is consideration given to books from Canadian authors and publishers? Why or why not? If not, should there be?
4. When developing a class reading list what factors are significant in your deliberations (Quality and relevance of the material? Cost to students? Cost to school? Canadian content?) Why is this?

Format

5. Let’s talk about the ability to rent vs. buy a book. Are considerations given to how students can access the books? Does the school try to have some on hand at the library? When assigning course readings, do you take into consideration the cost to students of purchasing the book?

6. As far as you know, does your institution(s) use books independently published by the author? Would you in the future? Why/why not? How do self-published books compare to conventionally published books?

7. Does your institution(s) use digital or e-books? Would you in the future? What are the advantages/disadvantages?

8. Have the book requirements for students been changing over time?
   - Are there increases/decreases in certain areas (fiction, non-fiction, Canadian/not, digital/print, required/recommended)?
   - Why do you think that it is changing this way? What is responsible for this change?
   - Do you think that this is a good change or a bad change? Why?

9. Now let’s talk about spending for books. Has that been going up or down? Why is that? What is driving it? How do you feel about that? What are the implications of this for students? For schools?

Paid Versus Free Content

10. Do you, or your institution(s), ever make photo copies of a book, or portions of a book, available to students?
    - How much of a book do you feel is fair to copy?
    - What does this depend on? Does it make a difference/Does it matter? Who will it impact negatively/positively?

11. What about e-books or material available online? Is it fair to make copies of these available? Which ones are fair to distribute and which ones are off-limits? Does printing as handouts vs. providing a copy of a link make a difference?

12. What are the implications of copying books for free? Does it have an impact on anyone? Who and why? Should that make a difference?
13. Does it make a difference if the free books (copying, sharing, not paying for content) are being used for education vs. for personal use? How and why does this make a difference?

14. What do you know about “Fair Dealing” under Canadian copyright law? What does it mean? Do you think there is any misinterpretation of the term? Who do you feel should be responsible for providing clear direction on Fair Dealing?
   a. Should the publishing industry produce clarifying information, available for schools? Should it be the federal government? Should schools produce their own guideline/policy to ensure they are correctly interpreting the law?

15. Should people consider authors and publishers when they are making decisions about accessing unauthorized free access to books? Do you think that if authors and book publishers made these arguments people would care? Would it make a difference?

16. Should the book publishing industry communicate with the public from the broader context of digital piracy, or is there something particular to the book industry that needs to be communicated/would be more compelling to the public? To students?
   a. Do you think that if authors, publishers and other elements of the book industry offered a clear and coherent argument about the costs and implications of unauthorized free access that people would respond?

17. What would be the most compelling or convincing argument(s) that you would make to a group of people if you wanted them to think about these issues before making decisions to copy or access books for free (without the authorization of the author/publisher)? Why would you argue for this (e.g., what is the rationale and who would benefit)?

18. Do you have any suggestions or proposals that you would make to change the way that books are created, published and paid for (e.g., a new business model) that you think would be more beneficial or workable in this changing environment? Who would gain from this? And, would anyone suffer from this new model?

Closing

19. Do you have any final comments you would like to make, or go back to further address any areas?

The Book Strategy Group (BSG) is an ad hoc committee representing the interests of Canadian writers and publishers. The BSG has commissioned EKOS Research Associates Inc. to conduct public opinion research on current attitudes of English speaking Canadians about the cultural and economic value of written works. The research will explore matters of pricing, copyright law, file-sharing, ownership and lending models, as well as views on Canadian content, and assessments of knowledge and valuation of self-published books and traditionally published books.

As a component of this study, interviews are being conducted with individuals in the educational sector, including: library professionals; primary, secondary and post-secondary faculty; representatives from provincial ministries of education; and copyright specialists.

You were identified as a key informant for the purposes of this study only to speak specifically about the book use in the Canadian educational sector. All of your comments will be kept confidential. No names will be included or linked with responses in the final report. This interview will take approximately 30 minutes.

Please feel free to tell the interviewer if you are unable to answer any specific questions or if any questions do not apply to you.

General consumption

1. Let’s start by talking about the importance of books in the educational sector.
   - How much of the academic work that students do relies on reading books?
   - Are there any choices students should have in the books they read for educational purposes?
   - Is there any advantage to having required vs. recommended reading?

2. From your own perspective, should consideration be given to books from Canadian authors and publishers? Why or why not?

3. When developing a class reading list what factors should be included deliberations (Quality and relevance of the material? Cost to students? Cost to school? Canadian content?) Why is this?
Format

4. Let’s talk about the ability to rent vs. buy a book. Should considerations be given to how students can access the books? When assigning course readings, the cost to students of purchasing the book be taken into consideration? From what you have seen, can copies generally be found in the school library?

5. From what you have heard, are students assigned books independently published by the author? How do you feel self-published books compare to conventionally published books?

6. Are digital or e-books used as part of course work? Should they be in the future? What are the advantages/disadvantages?

7. Have the book requirements for students been changing over time?
   - Are there increases/decreases in certain areas (fiction, non-fiction, Canadian/not, digital/print, required/recommended)?
   - Why do you think that it is changing this way? What is responsible for this change?
   - Do you think that this is a good change or a bad change? Why?

8. Now let’s talk about costs of books required for course work. Has that been going up or down? Why is that? What is driving it? How do you feel about that? What are the implications of this for students? For schools?

Paid Versus Free Content

9. Do you, or your school as far as you know, ever make photo copies of a book, or portions of a book?
   - How much of a book do you feel is fair to copy?
   - What does this depend on? Does it make a difference/Does it matter? Who will it impact negatively/positively?

10. What about e-books or material available online? Is it fair to make copies of these available? Which ones are fair to distribute and which ones are off-limits? Does printing as handouts vs. providing a copy of a link make a difference?

11. What are the implications of copying books for free? Does it have an impact on anyone? Who and why? Should that make a difference?

12. Does it make a difference if the free books (copying, sharing, not paying for content) are being used for education vs. for personal use? How and why does this make a difference?
13. What do you know about “Fair Dealing” under Canadian copyright law? What does it mean? Do you think there is any misinterpretation of the term? Who do you feel should be responsible for providing clear direction on Fair Dealing?
   e. Should the publishing industry produce clarifying information, available for schools? Should this be the responsibility of the federal government? Should schools produce their own guideline/policy to ensure they are correctly interpreting the law?

14. Should people consider authors and publishers when they are making decisions about accessing unauthorized free access to books? Do you think that if authors and book publishers made these arguments people would care?

15. What would be the most compelling or convincing argument(s) that you would make to a group of people if you wanted them to think about these issues before making decisions to copy or access books for free (without the authorization of the author/publisher)? Why would you argue for this (e.g., what is the rationale and who would benefit)?

16. Do you have any suggestions or proposals that you would make to change the way that books are created, published and paid for (e.g., a new business model) that you think would be more beneficial or workable in this changing environment? Who would gain from this? And, would anyone suffer from this new model?
